SUBJECT: SOCIAL HOST ORDINANCE UPDATE

SYNOPSIS

Staff recommends that the City Council introduce an ordinance of the City Council of the City of Oceanside amending Sections 20.27 and 20.28 concerning alcohol and illegal drug offenses by minors and juveniles to add a knowledge element to the language of the City's Social Host Ordinance.

BACKGROUND

On May 7, 2003, the Oceanside City Council approved Ordinance 03-OR289-1 (Social Host Ordinance) sections 20.27-20.31, relating to prohibitions against consumption of alcoholic beverages by minors, and hosting or allowing gatherings where minors consume alcoholic beverages. The purpose of the ordinance was to protect public health, safety, and welfare, to enforce laws prohibiting consumption of alcohol by minors, and to reduce costs of providing police response to parties by shifting the financial burden to irresponsible hosts. The ordinance was intended to remedy the problems caused by underage drinking parties, including alcohol abuse, vandalism, excessive noise, traffic accidents, and physical altercations and injuries. The ordinance made it unlawful for a minor, a person under the age of twenty-one, to consume alcohol at any public place, place open to the public, or place not open to the public unless supervised by the minor's parent or guardian. Further, the ordinance made it unlawful for a person to host a party at a premise under his or her control where a minor consumes alcohol.

On September 7, 2004, the San Diego Superior Court Appellate Division held, in an unpublished opinion, that the section of the San Diego City Social Host Ordinance that held a party host criminally liable violated a person's right to due process because the court believed a person could not be convicted of the offense if the host were unaware or would not reasonably know that a party was taking place or minors were consuming alcohol. The current language in Oceanside's Social Host Ordinance is similar to that in the San Diego City ordinance that was ruled "constitutionally impermissible". Following this ruling, both the City of San Diego and San Diego County amended their social host ordinances to add a "mens rea", or intent, element.

ANALYSIS

Consumption of alcoholic beverages by minors in public and private locations presents a myriad of problems for the minor, the community, and law enforcement. Even worse, some adults condone this behavior and supply alcohol to minors at a parties in their homes. An effective Social Host Ordinance gives law enforcement an important tool to deter underage drinking parties, and provides consequences for those who choose to ignore the underage drinking laws and encourage behavior that exposes our community to unnecessary health and safety risks.

Based on the recent San Diego Superior Court Appellate decision, the Police Department has identified an issue with the current language of the Social Host Ordinance that could render it unenforceable if challenged in court. The proposed amendments to the Social Host Ordinance add a knowledge element by providing that that it is unlawful for any person to host a party where that person knows, or reasonably should have known, that a minor has consumed an alcoholic beverage.

FISCAL IMPACT

There is no fiscal impact associated with this request.

COMMISSION OR COMMITTEE REPORT

Pending review scheduled on March 15, 2007.

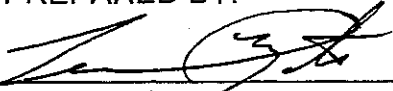

CITY ATTORNEY'S ANALYSIS

The proposed amendments add a "mens rea", or knowledge/intent, element to Chapter 20's Social Host Ordinance. While the unpublished Superior Court Appellate Department ruling that prompted this change is not citable as legal precedent, it is an indication of how a trial or appellate court might analyze Chapter 20. The proposed amendments, while making enforcement of the Social Host Ordinance more fact specific, will provide greater constitutional safeguards in its application to the citizens of Oceanside.

RECOMMENDATION

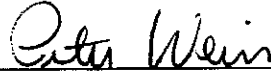

Staff recommends that the City Council introduce an ordinance of the City Council of the City of Oceanside amending Sections 20.27 and 20.28 concerning alcohol and illegal drug offenses by minors and juveniles to add a knowledge element to the language of the City's Social Host Ordinance.
